Dear Susanne:

I wanted to take a brief moment to thank you for the time that you provide executive coaching to various people here at Cardinal Health. We have noticed both dramatic increases in their communication skills as well as continuous improvement to their interpersonal skills. The critical combination of both enhanced internal and external communications will assist Cardinal Health to continue its aggressive growth targets. The gains in communication and the receptive cooperation of the people that you coach have definitely led to immediate gains to our organization. I know that great companies are a result of great people with superb execution. Our investment with you towards the development of our people has been an immediate and ongoing positive return on our investment!

Highest Regards,

Phil Meeks
